The Houston Emergency Preparedness Cookbook

Recipes to turn your emergency food supply into life - saving meals

Foreword

Under natural disaster conditions, we often wonder what we will eat or how we will feed our family. This recipe book is your guide for making good food choices that are healthy, tasty, quick and safe. Most of the ingredients in this recipe book are based on canned, boxed, or bottled non-perishable food items, with the exception of fresh fruits and vegetables. Fruits and vegetables can be kept without refrigeration for a couple of days.

The recipes in this cookbook have come from residents in Houston and the surrounding areas. The cookbook was created by the Office of Surveillance and Public Health Preparedness, Houston Health Department, at the City of Houston. The recipes can be prepared using non-perishable food items, available fresh fruits and vegetables, and manual appliances.

This recipe book is designed to offer you quick and nourishing food options when you are without electricity. We hope you enjoy these recipes. We recommend that you experiment with some of the recipes to find your family's favorites.

Preparing for an Emergency

Storms and severe weather conditions appear to be happening more frequently in recent years. Climate experts are confident that climate change will bring increasingly frequent and severe heat waves and extreme weather events. These changes have the potential to affect human health in several ways, some of them severe.

If utilities (water, gas, electricity or telephone) are stopped, what would you do? Local officials and relief workers will be on the scene after a disaster, but it may be days before they can reach you. You are in the best position to plan for your own and your family's safety. Use this guide to help protect yourself and your family in the event of an emergency.

There are four steps to prepare in advance for an emergency:

Make a Plan ➡ Build a Kit ➡ Stay Informed
➡ Know Your Neighbors.

1 Make a Plan

Develop a disaster plan of what you and your family members will do in an emergency.

- Be sure everyone in the family knows how to get in touch with one another. Keep a list of important phone numbers by the phone and in your emergency kit. If the power goes out or cell networks are overloaded, it may be easier to reach someone out of the region.

- If you aren't able to communicate at all, designate meeting places where everyone agrees to go. Pick one near your home for emergencies that happen locally, and another outside the region as an "evacuation meeting point."
- If a family member has functional needs or medical issues, account for these in your plan. Include information on medications, medical devices, prescriptions, insurance information, and doctors.
- When developing your family's disaster plan, you should assemble and make copies of vital contact information for each family member.
- Coordinate your emergency plan with people in your lives, including work, daycare, school and other families.
- Know the exit routes, evacuation routes and alternate routes if roads should become blocked or impassable.

2 Build a Kit

After you have your plan, start building a kit. Keep enough food and water supplies in your home to survive on your own, or shelter in place for at least five to seven days. Then, make a list of things you use every day. Don't worry about buying everything at once. Instead, pick up extras of a few items that you use each time you go to the store. Purchase food items before you need them and before there is a shortage. After a natural disaster, the grocery shelves become empty very quickly. Start making your preparedness purchases before you need to.

Food Supply

Stock your pantry with canned, boxed, or bottled foods, dry mixes, and other staples that do not require refrigeration. Choose food items that you and your family will eat and enjoy. Avoid items that require special preparation, long cooking times, lots of ingredients, or large amounts of water. Periodically check expiration dates of food and rotate items in your pantry.

Shopping for your family for emergency preparedness can be overwhelming if you try to do it all at once. Take it one step at a time. Make one night a week a family preparedness night and try out one of the recipes in this cookbook to find what your family likes. Serve your meal in the light of candles or lanterns.

The following items are suggested when selecting emergency food supplies. You may already have many of these on hand:

- ✓ Breads
- ✓ Crackers
- ✓ Dried fruits
- ✓ Canned juices
- ✓ Nuts and seeds
- ✓ Food for infants
- ✓ Instant puddings
- ✓ Instant hot cereal
- ✓ Protein or fruit bars
- ✓ Dry cereals or granola
- ✓ Instant rice or noodles
- ✓ Instant soup bouillon cubes

HEALTH TIP!

Try buying “low sodium” or “no salt added” canned and packaged foods and 100% whole grain breads, crackers and cereals

- ✓ Oil, vinegar, or lemon juice concentrate
- ✓ Instant beverages (coffee, cocoa, juices)
- ✓ Instant coffee, cocoa, or drinks
- ✓ Canned soups, bottled sauces
- ✓ Peanut butter or other nut butters
- ✓ Canned or boxed broth
- ✓ Bottled hard cheeses
- ✓ (Parmesan or Romano)
- ✓ Non-perishable pasteurized milk
- ✓ (or nut milks) in boxes or cans
- ✓ Fresh fruits and vegetables (they keep for several days without refrigeration)
- ✓ Condiments in small packets (mustard, mayonnaise, catsup, soy sauce, or pickle relish)
- ✓ Processed cheese (“Easy Cheese” in a can, “Cheese Whiz” in a jar, or “Velveeta” cheese block)

TIP!!

foods you would eat, even

Don't forget the manual can opener and disposable eating utensils!

Emergency Supply Kit (To-Stay or To-Go)

The best time to prepare your emergency supply kit is before an emergency happens.

- One gallon of drinking water per person per day
- Non-perishable, ready-to-eat canned foods and manual can opener
- Small basic first aid kit
- Whistle
- Matches
- Fire extinguisher
- Large plastic bags and duct tape
- Iodine tablets or one quart of unscented bleach

- (for disinfecting water ONLY if directed to do so by health officials) and eyedropper (for adding bleach to water)
- Flashlights, lanterns, and batteries
- Note: Light Emitting Diode (LED) flashlights and lanterns last up to 10 times longer than traditional bulbs and put out much more light
- Battery-operated AM/FM radio and extra batteries or wind-up radios that do not require batteries
- Personal hygiene items: soap, feminine hygiene products, toothbrush and toothpaste, etc.
- Keep your cell phone with you and keep the battery charged
- Child care supplies or other special care items
- Pet care supplies and food
- Stock paper plates, cups, napkins and plastic eating utensils. If you are facing a water shortage, this would make life much easier
- If you plan to cook on a grill, stock heavy-duty aluminum foil, foil cooking dishes, or skewers to make clean up easy

3 Stay Informed

Be sure to keep up with information from your local government leaders and media. If the Emergency Alert System is activated, tune to 740 AM or 88.7 FM to receive emergency messages. Don't just rely on one source – stay informed by using multiple sources of information.

#4 Know Your Neighbors

Disasters should not be the only time communities come together. Get to know your neighbors now so you will be ready to help each other when disaster strikes. Make sure your neighbors are prepared, too. There is no better resource than a prepared community!

Cooking During an Emergency

Natural disasters can happen at any time. Often, they may be accompanied by a loss of electricity. You may be without electricity for a day or longer.

In our modern society, we have become very dependent on electricity and find it is difficult to cope without it. If you have no power, you will not be able to rely upon handy electrical appliances, such as microwaves, stoves, can openers, blenders, coffee makers, and food processors. Be sure that you have the manual equivalents of those appliances, such as a manual can opener or coffee pot.

Unless you plan to eat all no-cook meals during that time, you need to arrange alternative methods of cooking and preparing food for you and your family. Here are a few safe options that are available:

Suitable for indoor use:

- Sterno stove
- Chafing dish
- Warming candles
- Fondue pot

Suitable for outdoor use only:

- Charcoal grill
- Propane grill or burner
- Propane camping stove

HEALTH TIP:
*When cooking
over charcoal,
avoid charring foods to reduce carcinogen development*

Grilling

If you are among the 75 percent of households who own an outdoor grill, then you are already on the road to success. A gas or charcoal grill can do many things for you during the times you have no electricity.

Be sure to keep an extra tank of propane on hand. If you have a charcoal grill, you will need to have an extra supply of charcoal. A typical gas grill with a full propane tank has enough fuel to cook about 30 to 50 meals or three meals a day for at least 10 days.

Charcoal grills have some advantages. The smoldering coals will remain hot several hours after you finish grilling. You may use this to your advantage to keep foods warm for several hours or to prepare for the next meal.

Wrap the foods you want to eat later tightly in aluminum foil and set them around the sides of your charcoal grill.

Close the lid of the grill and close the vents. When you are ready to grill again, add more coals and open the air vents.

A 20 lb. bag of charcoal briquettes should allow 4 to 6 cookouts. If you plan to use the charcoal grill in an emergency situation, make sure that you have on hand at least two 20 lb. bags of charcoal.

Cooking on the Grill Tips

- To prepare packets for the grill, use heavy aluminum foil that is large enough to fold once over your ingredients. Place the ingredients in the middle of the foil and fold the foil over. Make a double fold where the ends meet. Then, fold up the sides with double folds to create a more or less airtight package, with enough room for heat to circulate.
- You can use a skillet or pots directly on your grill if they do not have plastic handles. Be sure to use hot pads or oven mitts when touching handles. If you are just warming things, try placing pots on the top of the grill while cooking other foods. Many of the newer propane grills even have a side burner to use with pots. If you have a gas grill with a side burner, use the side burner to boil water or heat a can of soup. It will use less fuel than turning on all burners.
- Plastic oven-proof cooking bags can be used on top of the grill or camp stove in a pot of boiling water to warm canned foods.

- There will be no dirty pots to clean and the water can be reused later to boil other bags.

Grill safely so that your house will not become the next disaster in your life. Be safe, be careful, and eat well!

Camping Stoves and Sterno

If you do not have a grill, you may wish to invest in a propane camping stove. It is easily obtainable at most discount or sporting goods stores. Smaller than a grill but generally more efficient than Sterno, the camping stove comes in several forms. The simple styles may consist of only a metal base and a container to hold fuel. These can be used with manufactured fuel pellets or natural products (sticks, charcoal etc).

Many camping stoves now use propane, liquid fuel or even thermoelectric generators. Be sure to read the instructions on your stove and use the appropriate fuel.

The smallest, least expensive heat source is a Sterno stove. If you are using a Sterno stove, remember you are getting a lot less heat than from a grill or camping stove. While great for warming things, it can take a long time to boil liquids over Sterno so try to use this for recipes that do not require a lot of cooking.

Most Sterno cans will label how long they burn, and range from 2 to 6 hours or more. Be sure to keep several cans if this is your primary heat source.

How to Make Foil Packets to Cook on the Grill

Start with a clean sheet of heavy-duty foil.

Place your ingredients in the center.

Add a little oil.

Add your favorite seasoning.

Bring the two edges together.

Fold over the top edges to secure them.

Fold over all the ends to make a meal packet.

Place the entire packet on the grill.

Breakfast

Spiced Oranges (Serves 4)

by Margaret Raber

Ingredients:

4 navel oranges
2 tablespoons orange juice
1 tablespoon sugar
1/3 teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons lemon juice
pinch cardamom powder

Directions

1. Slice oranges in half and then into 1/4 inch slices.
Lay slices out on a plate.
2. Combine all other ingredients and pour over orange slices.
3. Serve immediately or let marinade for a few hours.

No-Cook Coconut Fudge (Serves 8)

by Margaret Raber

Ingredients:

1 cup unsweetened cocoa
1/2 cup honey or agave nectar
1/3 cup dried coconut flakes
1 cup coconut oil

Directions:

1. Coat a baking pan lightly with coconut oil.
2. Pour coconut oil into a bowl and add cocoa powder slowly, stirring with a fork to blend.
3. Add honey or agave and coconut flakes. Stir until pretty smooth.
4. Spread into the baking pan and keep in a cool place until the coconut oil hardens slightly.
5. Cut into squares and enjoy.

Peach Nut Crumble (Serves 4)

by Amber Moritz

Ingredients:

- 1 (14 1/2-ounce) can peaches in juice, sliced or diced
(do not drain)
- 1/2 cup dried fruit (cherries or cranberries, recommended)
- 1 cup granola with almonds, (split in half)
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- 4 graham crackers (optional)
- 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon salt

Directions:

1. Combine flour, salt, sugar and cinnamon. Mix well.
2. Put peaches and dried fruit in skillet over medium heat until warm.
3. Add the flour mixture to the skillet, stir well.
4. Increase heat, stirring frequently, until mixture is heated through and thickens (like peach cobbler filling).
5. Once the mixture has thickened, reduce the heat to low.
6. Add 1/2 of the granola, stir and heat for five minutes.
7. Break the graham crackers into large pieces, one cracker for each serving.
8. Spoon the peach mixture over the graham crackers, top with the remaining granola, and enjoy.

Safety Tips for Emergencies

Fire Safety

- Outdoor cooking equipment must stay out-of-doors. Never bring a gas or charcoal grill inside of your house or use in an enclosed space. They can create carbon monoxide that is unsafe.
- Location is everything. Grills need to be kept away from houses, fences, trees and anything else that is combustible.
- Be prepared to fight a fire. Have close access to a water source or a fire extinguisher. Remember that water can cause grease fires to literally explode. So if you need to put out a grease fire, you need to be a safe distance from it. If you decide to use a fire extinguisher, make sure that you know how to use it. You may not have time to read the instructions if a fire were to occur.
- Keep flammable materials far away from your grill. Do not store lighter fluids in close proximity to your grill. Never add lighter fluid or any flammable liquid to a burning fire.
- When lighting a gas grill, use the 10 to 5 rule. If the grill does not start within 10 seconds, turn off the gas, leave the lid open and give it 5 minutes before you try again. Propane gas can develop into a large cloud quickly.

- Frequently check the gas lines for leaks. Spray soapy water over the hoses and connectors will show any potential leaks. Leaks will cause the soapy water to make bubbles. If you find a leak, repair or replace the part before grilling again.
- Make sure that the fire is out when you are done. With a gas grill, turn off the control valves and the tank valve. On a charcoal grill, replace the lid and close all vents. Make sure that any burning grease is completely extinguished before you cover it. Let the charcoal burn out and wait at least 48 hours before disposing of the ashes.
- Make sure that the person in charge of grill has a clear head and is not distracted from his/her duties.
- When working around an open flame, always take precautions. Do not wear loose or baggy clothing that could fall or blow into the flame; don't have any combustible or flammable items or chemicals nearby; don't stand down wind of the fire if it is windy; don't get close enough to get burned; never leave an open flame unattended. Children should never be left unattended near a fire.

Food Safety

Food Safety Before a Weather Emergency:

We practice basic safe food handling techniques in our daily lives. However, obtaining and storing food safely becomes more challenging during a power outage or a natural disaster, such as hurricanes or floods. Keep an appliance thermometer in the refrigerator and in the freezer. This will help determine the safety of food during an emergency.

- The freezer temperature should be at 0 F (Fahrenheit) or below and the refrigerator should be at 40 F or below.
- Freeze containers of water for ice to help keep food cold in the freezer, refrigerator, or in coolers when the power is out. Allow some space in the bottle to allow for expansion during freezing.
- Plan ahead and know where you can purchase crushed ice, block ice, or dry ice.
- Keep a cooler on hand for refrigerator food cold if the power will be out for more than 4 hours.
- Group food together in the freezer. This helps the food to stay cold longer. A full freezer will hold temperature for about 48 hours if full and about 24 hours if only half full. The door should remain closed.

Food Safety During and After the Weather Emergency:

- Keep the refrigerator and freezer doors closed as much as possible to maintain the cold temperature.
- If the food in the freezer still contains ice crystals, the food is safe to use. Also, food may be safely refrozen if it still contains ice crystals.
- Obtain block ice or dry ice to keep your refrigerator and freezer as cold as possible if the power is going to be out for an extended period of time.
- Discard refrigerated perishable food, such as meat, poultry, fish, soft cheeses, milk, eggs, leftovers, and deli food items after 4 hours without power. Hard cheeses, such as Parmesan, Romano, Swiss, provolone, and cheddar, can be maintained without refrigeration for a few days.

When in doubt, throw it out!

Water Safety

Your family needs water and food to survive. Knowing how much you will need and the proper use in advance will help you manage your emergency.

- Allow for 1 gallon of water, per person, per day for drinking and personal care. If you have pets, include their water needs in your estimates.
- Keep at least a 3-day supply of water for each person at a minimum.
- People in warmer climates need more water to prevent dehydration.
- Store water in clean plastic containers, such as soft drink bottles. Do not re-use milk or other plastic food containers that once contained food to store water.
- If you have the time and an emergency situation is eminent, fill as many containers as you can with water, including the bath tub. This water could be used for personal hygiene or flushing the toilet.
- If you need to purify water, boil water vigorously for 10 minutes. After water has cooled, add 8 drops of unscented household bleach to each gallon of water that will be stored.
- As a last resort, the water contained in your water heater could be filtered through many layers of cotton cloth and used.
